

FACULTY-LED STUDY ABROAD PROGRAMS

Student Guests

In order to ensure that the program objectives and student health and safety remains the top priority and to mitigate potential risks, we have outlined the following policy relating to guests.

Family Guests

Spouses, partners, and children cannot participate in the program including activities related to the course requirements. Students who are involving family before/after/during the program dates must notify the Faculty Director prior to the departure date.

Other Friends/Guests

No other friends/guests are permitted to participate in RIT faculty-led programs. Any engagement with other friends/guests in country should take place independent of program courses and activities.

Lodging

RIT students cannot have family members, friends, or guests stay in their housing during participation in a study abroad program.
