Tiger Tales Toastmasters

Tiger Tales Toastmasters is a place that provides a platform for anyone, to develop and grow—both personally and professionally. By joining Tiger Tales you will be part of a community of learners, and in Toastmaster's meetings we learn by doing. No matter what level of your academic career you are in, you will improve yourself at Toastmasters; building skills to express yourself in a variety of situations. By learning to effectively formulate, organize, and express your ideas to others, you can achieve all kinds of success. You will be more capable and confident when giving presentations, pitching ideas, or persuading an audience for a call to action.

Doctoral Student Association (DSA)

DSA is a multidisciplinary Doctoral Students association, striving to create a collaborative environment. The PhD student community is in need of an inviting environment that brings students together to encourage collaborative work. Peer discussion and evaluation are inseparable aspects of the scientific and personal growth of researchers. DSA serves as a resource for PhD students where they can collaborate to produce high quality journal publications and conference presentations. Students benefit from both the process of receiving assistance as well as reviewing the work of others.

Women in Graduate School

The goal of the Women in Graduate School is to build a dynamic, safe, and inclusive community for RIT women and all gender minorities in graduate school to foster both personal and professional development as well as an environment of collaboration. WIGS will organize meetings and social/professional events, in addition to providing professional development activities. WIGS will also encourage the development of women and all gender minorities in graduate school through community outreach and fundraising events.
